MORSE WILL SAIL TODAY FOR HOME

Havre, December 4.—"Well, that settles it; I will sail tomorrow for home," said Mr. Morse.

Thus spoke Charles W. Morse early this afternoon when shown a dispatch printed in the morning newspapers under a Washington date line saying that United States Attorney-General Daugherty desired the ship builder to take passage on the first boat out of Havre.

Mr. Morse said he had received no reply to his request to the attorney-general for permission to remain in France until January 5, either from Mr. Daugherty himself or through the American embassy in Paris. He added that he had requested Police Commissioner-in-Chief Fabiani to call at the Continental hotel tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock and accompany him to the French line of offices and his passage, as he desired to board the liner before lunch and prior to the arrival of the boat trains at Havre from Paris.

Determined to sail.

"I should go back on that boat tomorrow, even if I were indicted for murder," said Mr. Morse to the correspondent. "As matters stand now I don't even know whether I am indicted or not."

The ship builder added that as soon as matters were settled satisfactorily in Washington he would return to Europe, as he must see Professor Machiavelli, the Italian specialist, regarding his illness.

The notoriety given him by his detention and the presence of the swarm of French newspaper men and belated American correspondents arriving in Havre today, made him more irritable than usual. He declared that he would decline to see anyone from now on. In giving his reason for desiring to maintain privacy Mr. Morse said to the correspondent:

"I was afraid my health would break down completely under the strain. It would be a most unfortunate thing for me should I suffer a collapse at this stage of the proceedings which would prevent me from returning to the United States."

Mr. Morse today declined an offer of Commissioner Fabiani to go for an automobile ride or attend a performance of the opera this afternoon and remained in his room throughout the day.

"I am unable to make any statement," said Mr. Morse to the Associated Press in the course of a long conversation this evening, "as I am not aware what charges have been made against me. All I want is to be left alone and to be permitted to board the Paris tomorrow without any flashlight photographs being taken of me."

French line officials say the Paris may not be able to sail at high tide tomorrow afternoon, and that they may not be able to put to sea until high water at 11 o'clock tomorrow night.

Marietta, Ga., December 4.—(Special.)—Deputies Sanders and Grover, of the Cobb county police force, Friday night, raided a liquor still near Carmichael, near Smyrna. The still was only about 300 yards from Collins Spring church, it is stated, and was just outside the residence of J. H. Spero, who was taken into custody and placed in the county jail on a charge of making whisky.

BLAME INCENDIARY IN AUGUSTA FIRES

Augusta, Ga., December 4.—(Special.)—Five hundred dollars' reward "for the arrest and conviction of the incendiary" who is responsible for the cotton warehouse, one of the largest cotton warehouses in the world, was offered tonight following a fire which but for the sprinkler system, would have caused heavy damage.

The fire tonight was the seventh one at the warehouse in the past five weeks. All the blazes have caused negligible damage, and have been confined to the department in which they originated. On each occasion the sprinklers have aided the firemen in keeping the blaze under control.

Fire department officials have abandoned the theory that the fires are caused by spontaneous combustion, due to the fact that the bales are loosely packed, and believe the work of firebugs.

Fifty thousand bales of cotton are stored in the warehouses, according to officials of the company, and approximately $10,000 damage has been caused by all the fires. Damage from the fire tonight will not exceed $1,000.

ONE MAN IS DEAD IN FIRE AT SEA, AS YACHT SINKS

Pensacola, Fla., December 4.—One man is dead, one missing, two badly burned and the yacht Glendover, of New Orleans, lies in 14 feet of water three miles from St. Andrews, as a result of a fire following an explosion on the yacht early yesterday.

Early Saturday morning one of the crew of the yacht went to the galley for something to eat, and in the search for food ignited a match, which was followed instantly by an explosion of gasoline which had leaked from the tank.

The vessel caught fire and burned to the water's edge, sinking in 14 feet of water at Beacon Heights, opposite the pilot station.

The burned men were taken to Panama City, where their wounds were dressed. Names of the captain and the crew could not be learned here.

Robber Sought In Watchman's Death by Train

Rome, Ga., December 4.—(Special.)—It has developed that George Barnes, white watchman at the plant of the Rome tannery, in this city, who was killed by a switch engine on the Southern railway at the tannery late Friday night, was murdered.

Investigation made Saturday victoriously developed that he had been attacked and robbed at the filter house of the tannery by some unidentified person and struck on the head with a heavy club. The club was found early this morning with blood on one end and splashes of blood were found in the filter house where the watchman had run in on the time clock just twenty minutes before he was killed on the track. He staggered directly in front of the engine and it was thought that he was dazed from the blow on the head received at the hands of a robber.

His bookbag, empty, was found a short distance from the filter house. He had received his weekly wages Friday night. Barnes was known to be in the habit of carrying a considerable sum with him all the time.

A coroner's inquest held late Saturday afternoon returned a verdict in accordance with these facts and recommended that the authorities seek the person who robbed Barnes.

The sheriff's office have been engaged in the search all day without result.

Tracks of a man were found in the soft dirt about the filter house, and were traced several hundred yards until they disappeared in a small stream of water. The search is being continued tonight.

PURSE IS SNATCHED FROM MRS. ANDREWS

Mrs. Valeria Andrews, of 86 Richardson street, suffered the loss of her purse, snatched from her hand by one of two negroes who appeared as she and a woman friend were returning from church Sunday night, on Richardson street between Cooper and Formwalt.

The negroes were chased by Charles G. Butler, of Hapeville, who was nearby when Mrs. Andrews' purse was snatched. After Mr. Butler had chased the blacks for some distance, however, one of the negroes produced a pistol and fired. As Mr. Butler had no weapon of his own, he was forced to permit the men to escape.

The case was investigated by Call Officers Goode and Norris, who also are investigating the holdup of a negro soft drink stand by two negro men at 8:30 o'clock Sunday night.

William Butler, the negro proprietor of the stand, at 167 Fort street, stated that the bandits held him up at the point of a pistol and secured $10.

In the official public statements of the conference. Similarly, the statements do not take into account all the many meetings between various national spokesmen at which some of the real business of the negotiations has been "informally" carried on.

The long delay in carrying forward the naval discussions is explained by the time required for the Japanese delegates to communicate with Tokyo, as well as by the importance which the Japanese attach to the present stage of the negotiations.

It is said in Japanese circles here that the home officials doubtless will not desire to forward a definite statement of the national attitude until they have very thoroughly canvassed sentiment throughout Japan.

By some Japanese the question of Japan is to be permanently allotted.

Wait Foreseen.

In Japanese circles it was predicted tonight that it would be "some days" before any important development advanced the naval negotiations beyond their present waiting stage. Emphasizing the importance of the decision Japan is making, her representatives indicated again that they regarded the final outcome of the naval question as bearing a close relation to possible abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance and the substitution of some agreement which would include the United States, and be the basis of a permanent understanding between Japan and this country.

There were also increased indications that the question of fortifications in the waters of the Far East bore a close relation in the minds of Japan to the question of national policy and, therefore, to the concrete question of how many capital warships Japan is to be permanently allotted.

Ferns and Stribling to Battle For Georgia State Title Tonight

Deep Interest Stirred in Show of American Legion—Budd and Karst on Bill.

Facts About Fight.

Red Quinn vs. Baby Stribling. Four rounds.
Felix Burns vs. Young Sullivan. Four rounds.
Jack Denham vs. K. O. Duggan. Six rounds.
Battling Budd vs. Kid Karst. Eight rounds.
Young Stribling vs. Fearless Ferns. Ten rounds.
Time, 8:30 p. m. Place, Auditorium.
Referee, Johnny Glynn.
Judges, Bill Kaliska and Fuzzy Woodruff.

I've ever seen him in," said his reverend Pa. "If he should get beat that is no matter. It is a prize fight, and a prize fighter is not to be afraid of a little defeat. Stribling does. He appears a little more finely drawn than usual, but that is probably due to his increased height. Stribling, being at that age when boys grow like the well-known weed, but he declares that his added length has not diminished his driving power, which is probable. It always seems to me that a man never gets to be a real pugilist until his proportions begin to resemble those of a lath.

"He had a nice workout in Savannah last week against Dick Leonard," continued Pa. "Leonard weighed 133 pounds, but he didn't hit W. L. three times. He showed the world that he knew how to fight in his last battle here with Matrangas."

Ferns Is Confident.

Ferns is just as confident as Stribling that he will beat away the best that is being offered in the family. He is of a saving disposition and wishing to keep his belt in the family, is of a like opinion.

"Stribling hit Ferns when they fought here and couldn't make him even grunt. Ferns will do a lot of hitting tonight and Stribling will be hitting the floor if he doesn't watch his step," said the optimistic Wack.

"Fearless is in fine shape. Billy Lot's been taking care of preparing him, and Billy says that he has Ferns right now where he's just crazy to get into the ring. That's the way to go to a prize fight, a boxer. He likes to hit and get hit and he's feeling mussy, he's right at top form. He'll be the champion before midnight Monday."

There is ample attraction in the other bouts. Battling Budd and Kid Karst, who are scheduled for the semi-final, fought a couple of years ago in the same arena as a windup attraction. It was one of the most bitterly contested scraps that Atlanta has ever seen. Budd is giving away weight, but Karst is giving away boxing skill. It will be a battle.

Jack Denham is meeting Billy Lot's protege, K. O. Duggan. Duggan is a newcomer, but Lot's says he has the better of him. The bout is expected to be interesting. Two scraps between little fellows will open the show.

The American Legionnaires, promoting the show, are looking forward to the banner house of the season.

Landis Rules Umpires Are Human

BY ALEXANDER F. JONES

Umps That Hit Fan Acquitted

Chicago, December 4.—After a half century of disbelief on the part of hundreds of thousands of fans, Judge Kennesaw Mountain Landis, high lord of baseball, has officially ruled that umpires are human.

To throw a bottle or brick at Bill Klen is fraught with as much legal unpleasantness as a similar offense against one's neighbor would be, and is not as justifiable, according to the judge's astounding interpretation.

"That the average umpire cannot see anything, as any fan can tell you, the judge does not attempt to deny. He simply says that Mr. Brennan and his playmates 'call it as they see it,' and let it go at that. The judge has sometimes been accused of being unique in his viewpoint, as when he fined the Standard Oil company $20,000,000, and now legally establishing umpires as human beings."

The case came up when Umpire William Guthrie, of the Western league, wallops a fan who, in rightful indignation, had bounced a bottle off his dial in a game at the Olympic stadium last summer. Guthrie had made a decision at third base which every Tulsa fan could see was a deliberate attempt to cheat the fans.

Shower of Bottles.

There was the usual shower of bottles, bricks, cushions and other objects hurled in Guthrie's direction as an evidence, as has been the custom since time immemorial, of disapproval. One of the bottles hit the umpire's skull so solidly that the echo could be heard, it is reported, over in the next county.

While friends of the lucky fan were congratulating him, Guthrie, showing truecruelty beyond understanding, actually slapped him and, after the game, actually slapped him. There was great indignation among the fans, and Guthrie was suspended.

"In dealing with the matter," says Landis, "it is to be borne in mind that the umpire engaged in an altercation with the man who he thought had struck him, after he had been slapped by the umpire. The umpire, in the field, all as a penalty for making righteous decisions."

"Having in mind that umpires belong to the human race, and are not to be treated as automatons, I say this: that they call it as they see it, and that too frequently, as in this case, they are made the victims of outrageous verbal and physical assault for honest discharge of their duties (laughter), it is not strange that once in a while an umpire fights back."

With this viewpoint, the fans cannot even imagine what may be the decision in the anxiously awaited Babe Ruth case. The judge has got his decision locked up in his safe, and will give it out when he gets good and ready. He was the point man in releasing it one day last week, but newspapers announced that he would do so without his consent, and just for the time being he was not safe. The judge doesn't like to have the reporters make his decisions for him.

LANE STOKES OGLETHORPE EMORY STAR

BY GEORGE MACDONNELL

In the aftermath of the Southern Methodist road race the students at Emory university naturally felt very much elated over the demonstration of running ability made Saturday by the track team. It proves conclusively that it was no accident that Emory won the first cross-country road race last fall, and what was done could be repeated.

Captain Stokes is his old self and promises to be through the rest of the meets scheduled for the year. The striking thing about Stokes' running is his remarkable endurance. Hailing from a region in Georgia where physical prowess is more or less expected, Lane Stokes came to Emory nearly four years ago and surprised the athletic authorities with his unusual speed. Since that time he has never disappointed his supporters, and has improved from year to year.

To see the Emory Bluebirds circling the track, with three or four runners in a group at the head, each straining for the extra yard or so that puts right, tracker permanently in the lead, and to watch Lane Stokes edge away from the rest and gradually put 10, 20, or even 30 yards between himself and the next runner, as he sometimes does on the longer runs, is worth one's four years' stay at college.

Track Team on Map.

If Emory has a foot race team at present, she has a track team, which nobody can deny, and if the authorities see fit to allow the members of the team to take part in more meets than they have been permitted to in the past, the names of Stokes, Harper and Graydon may become known in regions far distant.

When Asa G. Candler, president of the board of trustees, delivered the cup to the winning team Saturday, he voiced the sentiments of all true Emoryites in his praise of wholesome athletics, universally accepted as one of the brightest sides of modern college life. If Emory can be given an opportunity to show what she can do with the properly directed athletic program, backed by an exceptional large student body, this long neglected phase of student activities will be developed to the unending benefit of the university.

Within a short while Coach Smith-

Boxing has become one of the leading student activities at Oglethorpe. The school requirements call for participation in some form of athletics. Some students have chosen mass athletics, which requires one hour drill three times a week; other students select football, baseball, track, all according to the wish of the individual. The membership in the boxing class is generally increasing, and will soon, no doubt, number over half of the student body.

Jake Sartaine, possibly better known to the sporting population as "Jack Dempsey" Denham, is in charge, and has proven himself to be fully capable. Jake is just as interested in his work as his pupils, and endeavors to teach these would-be boxers all the tricks of the trade.

Many Inventions.

Oglethorpe has received several invitations to participate in boxing tournaments. Students of Mercer have communicated with Sartaine concerning the matter, and have written Petrels concerning details for possible meets. The Amateur Boxing Association has also requested the Petrels to send representatives to a meet to be held some time in the spring.

Whether Oglethorpe accepts these invitation remains to be seen, and will be wholly left up to the judgment of Sartaine. So far every class has been well represented, and if the spirit of the contestants does not lag much before the fight will be derived.

Another feature of school activity is the three-mile race to be held Wednesday. Coach Anderson has selected a rather long course, but many have shown their willingness to start no promise about the finish. The purpose is not only to encourage track work, but also to develop material for the coming track season.

ers will organize the general track team, which will include the members of the cross-country squad, for the state track meet, which will take place later in the year. Prior to that meet the Emory team will take part in several minor contests, the names of which will be announced later.

TRACK MEET FOR JUNIORS

BY FRED HANEY

A track meet between the junior high schools, composed of Fulton High, Kirkwood and Decatur High is in the making and although no definite date has been set so far it is thought that it will be pulled off sometime in February. With the addition of a track team to the menu of sports at the three schools, their list is now complete and the only thing that will keep them from entering the city league with the big prep schools is some experience.

Fulton High is to be coached by Harold K. Van Buren, coach of the football eleven. Coach Van Buren says that he expects to turn out a team of material in the near future, and that he will be glad to work with both Wilder and Kiker, stars of the gridiron, in all probability snatching a position on the "under team" that is to represent the Whitehall Street school.

Nothing definite has been learned as to what Kirkwood and Decatur will have, but it is certain that they will have teams that will give Fulton High some high competition. Both schools have some splendid material for a track team and it is a sure bet that they will use it to a good advantage.

More Basket Work.

The basketball teams from these three schools and Marietta will begin a new week of practice this afternoon. From indications now it seems that Marietta High and Decatur High will have the best girl quintets of the bunch. These two five fights it out last season for the championship of the league.

Decatur High has three girls back from last year's team. They are Mary Cunningham and Martha Uble, forwards, and L. U. Livers, guard. These three girls are expected to be the main cogs for the team this year.

East Point, although not in this new league, is also planning to have one of the best quintets in the history of the school. Miss Buchanan has been elected captain of the team for the coming year, and from all indications this team is going to give a lot of these girls' teams around this part of the state some hard-fought games.

The boys from Marietta, Kirkwood, Fulton and Decatur are also expected to show the bigger prep schools how to play the game. Good material is coming into the lineup among the boys. Buddy Barnes, center, Fulton, is one of the best. He is a big, powerful fellow, and is expected to be one of the best forwards around Atlanta. Both are fine shots and have the ability to run a team as it should be run.

40 PLAYERS FOR AUBURN

BY EMMETT SIZEMORE

Auburn, Ala., December 4.—(Special.)—Forty men answered the call for candidates for the basketball team when practice started in the gymnasium Thursday night, and more are expected to come when the freshmen football team disbanded after their game with Chattanooga All-City Preps Saturday afternoon.

The coaches are exercising no little worry about the fact that they have no men ready to report who have had very much experience in the cage game. The situation this season is just the reverse of that of a year ago, when a court full of veterans appeared to hold down their old positions. This season will be marked with the keenest competition. To look over the forty odd men reporting, it appears that about 75 per cent of them have about an equal chance of landing a place in the regular line-up.

Coach Hutsell explains, though, that they are enthusiastic, and are hard workers, which, of course, are important factors in turning out successful athletic teams.

More Pleading News.

Another pleasing feature of the squad reporting is that a large number of the men are of tall range, several of which measure more than six feet. Among those of the elongated caliber are Moulton, Harrison (captain), Hill, Shipe, and Creel, all of which were on the varsity football squad except Creel, who was with the freshmen team.

Among those showing promise in the initial workouts are McGary, guards, Sheep Thigpen, Auburn; Jesse Duke, Birmingham; Wallace McKinney, Mobile; H. H. Hill, Columbiana; John Shipe, Moulton; and Creel, Mobile, and Rene Crane, Birmingham.

Two pre-season games have been arranged for, according to a recent announcement of the athletic authorities, which will serve to give the coaches a line on the available material. The first is to be played in West Point, Ga., with the West Point Athletic club, and the second will be a game with the United States Infantry school at Camp Benning, Ga., which will be played in Auburn on December 20.

MANY LETTER MEN AT G.M.A.

BY "THE RED LINE"

The "Thin Red Line" of the Georgia Military academy has put away its outfit for football, and has joined the "Stoic" High league, where it is not too strict. In fact, it seems pretty good to be able to wander around town in a group instead of plugging away at a swinging dance.

This is the first time since 1912 that G. M. A. has won the undisputed city championship. Also the first cadet team to defeat Tech High in nine years, though the team in 1920 tied the Junior Smiths, 7-7. This year, second G. M. A. team to beat Tech High since 1912, last year's team also having perfect record.

Follows the record of G. M. A. this year:

September 28—G. M. A. 3, Auburn 41.
October 6—G. M. A. 3, Rome High 10.
October 14—G. M. A. 46, Madison A. & G. 21.
October 21—G. M. A. 54, Ochs 10.
October 28—G. M. A. 14, Carrollton A. & M. 0.
November 4—G. M. A. 20, Boys' High 6.
November 11—G. M. A. 7, Tech High 6.
November 23—G. M. A. 7, Peach 0.
G. M. A. total, 171; opponents' total, 53.

The following men are wearing letters won during the season: Star manager; Simonite, captain; Fair, center; Hatcher, guard; Savage, guard; Bass, tackle; Baker, tackle; King, end; McCormick, end; Dick, guard; Irwin, half; Johnston, fullback. The following subs also made letters: Dump Clarke, Buchanan, Reynolds, Cummings, Ross, Davis, McDonald.

Defeating Georgia May Save Scalp of Dartmouth's Coach

Alumni Trying to Depose Jackson Cannell, But the Players and Students Back Him.

Hanover, N. H., December 4.—(Special.)—Every member of the Dartmouth football team and members of the first squad, have signed a petition asking the athletic council of the college to depose Jackson Cannell, coach of the team, and to elect a new coach.

This action of the Big Green football players follows close upon an attempt being made by groups of powerful alumni to have Cannell removed from some other man appointed in his place.

A second petition was circulated among the undergraduates of the college immediately after the first one had been signed by the football men, with the same intent as the first.

It is expected that within a day or two the entire undergraduate body will have signed this petition, as it is deemed that a movement to depose Cannell be sidetracked at once, the whole undergraduate body being behind the "Everett" man. It is understood that the fact that the Big Green team lost two games—Syrause and Cornell—and tied Penn during the season, is the underlying motive in the movement against Cannell.

In spite of the fact that the Cornell debacle was the worst beating a Dartmouth team has received in years, the undergraduates point to the Georgia game, which offsets all defeats, they claim.

A prominent Dartmouth graduate, who was coaching the eleven of another college, has said that such a defeat might be expected at any time, in any college, and is not necessarily the fault of the coach.

The undergraduates point to the defeat of Georgia, rated as one of the strongest teams of the season, and until the Harvard game this year, undoubted as the first time in the season since the opening game, all the regulars were in the line-up, although two of them were not in the best condition.

Five Fulton Players on All-Star Junior Preps Had Fine Campaign

BY FRED HANEY

The Junior High School Football league, composed of Fulton High, Kirkwood and Decatur High, has just finished one of the best football seasons that any first year school has ever enjoyed. So now comes the hard job of selecting the best eleven men from the three teams.

The tackle position is fully as well taken care of by Visscher and Amason. Both are hard hitting players and have played good games. Visscher, from Decatur, and Amason, from Fulton, are holding down the guards. Robertson, Decatur, left guard; Wilder, Fulton, center; Dowd, Kirkwood, right guard; Amason, Fulton, right tackle; DeJarnette, Fulton, right end; Bowers, Kirkwood, quarterback; Mallory, Decatur, left halfback; Melton, Decatur, right halfback; and Simonton, Fulton, fullback.

For sub you will find Hansen, Kirkwood; Griffin, Decatur, and Minner, Fulton, in the line, while Bothwell, of Decatur, and Bray, Fulton, complete the list of backfield substitutes.

Prize money has been offered to the player who has played the best game during the season. The money was well deserved by the season and season. They are Metts, Decatur; Bobo and Walton, Fulton; and Griffin, Decatur. This list gives Fulton High five men, Decatur four and Kirkwood two.

In Kiker Fulton has one of the best ends seen around these parts in a long time. He only weighs 110 pounds, but he is there in every play and catches passes with the skill of

COMPANY 'M' TRIMS FEDS

BY R. M. MATSON

The last Co-op team, Company "M," of the R. O. T. C. regiment, met and defeated the football team representing the Federal prison in a hard-fought game Saturday afternoon by the score of 10 to 6. The high scores, which had been run up by the Fed's against other teams, had kept the Co-ops' hopes for a victory rather low.

The first few minutes of the game showed that the Fed's had a dangerous offensive and they soon put the ball across for a touchdown. Lafayette made the score, but failed to kick goal.

They Came to Life.

During the intermission between halves, Coach Gardner instilled into the men more fight and gave them orders to open up an offensive. The third quarter had not gone far before Tappan crossed the line and Cureton kicked goal. Again the Fed's turned loose and by a dazzling attack of forward passes and end runs, they scored a touchdown.

The Co-ops recovered on a fumble and saved the day. In the last few minutes of this quarter, Sasek dropped-kicked the final points of the game. In the fourth quarter the Fed's made their last attempt to score and the game ended with the ball on Company's "M's" eleven-yard line.

Miller in the aerial game for the Fed's. McMahon, Harlan, Baker and Lafayette also showed good work for the Fed's. The Co-ops showed fine work in the whole game, and worked well together. Hamilton, of the Tech freshman squad, strengthened the line wonderfully.

GRANT PARK A. A. FIVE DEFEATS FAIRBURN

The Grant Park Athletic association completely outplayed the Fairburn team Friday night in the fastest game of the season. The game was played by the brilliant team work of the athletic association. The visitors failed to score from the field owing to the stellar work of the guards and, in the meantime, the Grant Park Army was running up 38 points from the field. The final score was 43 to 8. The criminal session here, as a rule, lasts only a week, but at the expiration of this period only a few cases are disposed of. It is expected that more than half the cases on the docket will remain undischarged when the final adjournment of the present term is made.

It is during her three days' stay in Atlanta, she will be entertained by various organizations, two of the functions being a luncheon Monday noon at the Piedmont hotel tendered her by the Film Managers' association, and another being the two thousand dollar luncheon of the Atlanta Woman's club on Wednesday.

Jane Cowl Tonight In "Smilin' Through," At Atlanta Theater

The much-heralded engagement of Miss Jane Cowl opens at the Atlanta theater tonight and extends for the balance of the week with Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Miss Cowl is the star who completely captured New York in "The Man of the Hour" seven years ago, and each season since has been a triumph for her. Her current vehicle is entitled "Smilin' Through" and so pronounced has been the success of this play that a London engagement has been arranged for the coming spring season. In the intervening weeks Miss Cowl determined to make her initial tour of the chief cities of the south, and the nation, according her in Richmond, Norfolk, New Orleans, etc., have assured the fascinating event will be recorded in this city during the entire theatrical season. "Smilin' Through" is a gripping story of undying love and lifelong hate, and possessing the irresistible charm of comedy and heart-throbbing emotion skillfully blended by a playwright whose craftsmanship is little short of marvelous. His name is Allan Langdon Martin, and it is not too extravagant to anticipate from his pen some day the long-expected "great American play." Miss Cowl brings to Atlanta her entire original New York company.

AN URGENT MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNORS OF 41 STATES To Twenty Million School Children OF AMERICA

THOMAS E. KILBY, Governor of Alabama.

Schools and colleges everywhere should study the proceedings of the pending conference for the limitation of armaments. I can conceive of no way by which those who are to be our future citizens can be trained more effectively for the political and economic development of our country and of the world.

THOMAS E. CAMPBELL, Governor of Arizona.

Regardless of its outcome, the Armament Conference is of such tremendous importance to the future welfare of the young people of America that they should take advantage of every possible opportunity to follow the proceedings in detail.

THOMAS C. McRAE, Governor of Arkansas.

Every school child and college student in the United States should be required to study closely the proceedings of this great Conference. They should know the significance of it all. Teachers and school and college officials will co-operate to this end I believe.

WILLIAM D. STEPHENS, Governor of California.

Never before in the history of the world has a limited group of men been given an opportunity to relieve a war weary world of the awful burdens of destructive warfare. Never before has it been possible to relieve the mothers, the children and the toilers of the world of the heartaches, the heartbreaks, the want and misery and slighted education, the almost unbearable taxes and other economic sacrifices brought on by war. May we not pray that God will guide aright all those who participate in the proceedings of the great Disarmament Conference now in session in Washington. In my judgment it will be good for the future of the republic if all school children give earnest study to the proceedings.

OLIVER H. SHOUP, Governor of Colorado.

We can conceive no better way to train the citizens of tomorrow for the discharge of their most important duties than by encouraging their study of the proceedings in Washington at the great Conference.

EVERETT J. LAKE, Governor of Connecticut.

If it can be impressed upon all our school children to watch intently and to study by all means at hand the proceedings now taking place at the Armament Conference at Washington, I feel sure that in the years to come, their influence will be moulded into a public opinion which will insist upon amicable settlements and the avoidance of armaments of all differences, and that this public opinion will also make such amicable adjustment effective to prevent further wars among civilized nations.

CARY A. HARDEE, Governor of Florida.

It is well that the twenty million school children of America should study the proceedings of the Washington Conference. It is perhaps a most important peak in the political and economic history of modern world.

THOMAS W. HARDWICK, Governor of Georgia.

I believe that a study of this question by the college students and school children of the country is most important.

D. W. DAVIS, Governor of Idaho.

There is an astonishing lack of sound information among our citizens of the political and economic history of the world. Should the true situation be spread before the boys and girls today there would dawn a better tomorrow, because the dominating characteristic of the average citizen is his desire for betterment.

LEN SMALL, Governor of Illinois.

Warring between nations must cease. Humanity demands it; economics demand it. I can see no better way to bring about this ultimate end, should we not immediately succeed, than to educate the twenty million American school children to the horrors of war and the necessities of peace through close study of the proceedings of the present Disarmament Conference.

WARREN T. McCRAE, Governor of Indiana.

There has never been a time in the world's history when the deliberations and decisions of a selected group of international representatives meant more to the future of civilization than the decisions resulting from the Armament Conference now in session at Washington. Every generation or movement of the Conference should be closely studied by the public school children of our land, thus inculcating in their minds the idea that the apostles of peace are no less deserving of the eternal gratitude of a liberty-loving nation than are the heroes of war.

N. E. KENDALL, Governor of Iowa.

I unreservedly approve the campaign to induce the school children of the country to study its proceedings from day to day. Nothing, in my opinion, will contribute so much to the preservation of permanent peace as the inculcation in the hearts of the young of a profound abhorrence of war.

HENRY J. ALLEN, Governor of Kansas.

I know of nothing more timely than the study in the schools of the present proceedings of the Arms Conference. Its fundamental educational value alone would justify it. It marks an important epoch in history, and will have a tremendous effect upon the thought and feeling of the present and the future.

EDWIN P. MORROW, Governor of Kentucky.

The youth of America, its boys and girls, should watch with the keenest interest and the fullest understanding the ever-shifting scene of the Disarmament Conference to the end that they may forever say, "I beheld the progress of the event which took fear and distrust out of the hearts of nations and brought confidence in each other to nations and a new sense of brotherhood to the peoples of the earth."

JOHN M. PARKER, Governor of Louisiana.

The nation, and especially coming men and women, as represented by our school children, should carefully study this Conference.

PERCIVAL P. BAXTER, Governor of Maine.

As Governor of Maine and head of the School Department I have urged both superintendents and teachers to have their classes study and follow the proceedings of the Disarmament Conference. I consider this Conference the greatest event of history and believe that the rising generation should become conversant with the problems of the Conference and with the discussion that takes place there. A careful study of the Conference proceedings will teach world history, geography, economics, and politics, and will give our students a wide range of information. The importance of such a program cannot be overstated.

J. A. O. PREUS, Governor of Minnesota.

The Conference on Limitation of Armaments is the most important gathering in many decades and every student who desires a complete knowledge of history must read and watch its proceedings.

THE AMERICAN SCHOOL CHILDREN OF TODAY must be the preservers of World Peace tomorrow.

The Presidents and Cabinet Members, the Senators and Congressmen, the Preachers and Editors, and all the great leaders of thought and action who will control the destinies of America and of the world when "tomorrow" dawns are studying at this very moment, in the schoolrooms of the Nation.

They are preparing---we who plan their studies, we who teach them are preparing them---for the great tasks we must soon turn over to them. Their minds and hearts must be filled with the great lessons from the living present.

The greatest moment of their lives, for learning, is THIS MOMENT. The greatest opportunity that ever came or ever can come to them for learning the political and economic history of the world, and of their own country in its relation to the rest of the world, has come to them now in the great Conference of Nations which is meeting in Washington.

The Literary Digest has received telegrams from the Governors of forty-one of the forty-eight States of the United States calling upon the teachers and school children of America to give earnest study day by day to the proceedings, from beginning to end, of the great Disarmament Conference, which the Governor of Florida characterizes as "the mountain peak in the political and economic history of the modern world." These telegrams are here printed as an urgent message to the schools of the Nation.

ALBERT C. RITCHIE, Governor of Maryland.

I heartily urge the school children of America to study the proceedings of the Disarmament Conference as they develop from day to day. No such opportunity for learning the political and economic history of the world, the hopes and ambitions of its peoples, has ever been presented. It is a rare privilege that is afforded us. There can be no greater or broader educational advantage than to study intently the proceedings of the Conference.

CHANNING H. COX, Governor of Massachusetts.

In the Armament Conference the political and economic history of the modern world is to be studied. I can conceive of no better way to train the citizens of tomorrow for the discharge of their most important duties than by encouraging their study of the proceedings of the great Conference.

ALEX. J. GROESBECK, Governor of Michigan.

Our boys and girls should closely follow the proceedings at Washington and thus take advantage of a wonderful opportunity to study history in its making.

ARTHUR M. HYDE, Governor of Missouri.

The history of the Washington Conference should be studied from both the political and the economic side by the school children of America. There can be no better way to train citizenship than by the study of the history and the present conditions, political, economic and social, of the other nations of the world. The study of the proceedings of the Conference will be of vast educational value to the school children of America and to the citizenship of the future.

JOSEPH M. DIXON, Governor of Montana.

The Disarmament Conference marks a milestone in world history. The public schools and colleges of the country can perform no greater service to the nation than that of giving courses, during the sitting of the Washington Conference, to their students regarding the great questions involved. If we can fully impress upon the minds of these young people the tremendous danger involved and the compelling necessity for World Disarmament, the possibilities of future war will be greatly reduced.

SAMUEL R. McKELVIE, Governor of Nebraska.

School and college students should keep carefully informed of the work of the Disarmament Conference. The facts that will be deduced out of the discussion there are of tremendous importance to our national life. A knowledge of national conditions is a prime requisite of good citizenship, and of almost equal importance is a knowledge of international affairs.

EMMET D. BOYLE, Governor of Nevada.

I heartily approve your suggestion that the school children study contemporary history in the making at the Arms Conference. The movement is an educative one and should extend to the children upon whose intelligence and sense of justice the future of the nation rests.

MERRITT C. MECHEM, Governor of New Mexico.

I think it vitally important to instruct the youth of the country relative to the great historical event now transpiring at the Washington Disarmament Conference. Our children should be helped to understand thoroughly what is being done to prevent a recurrence of the horrible world tragedy we are now emerging from.

NATHAN L. MILLER, Governor of New York.

I strongly recommend to the teachers and the boys and girls of New York the earnest study of the proceedings of the Disarmament Conference which already gives such promise of a new era. The rising generation should be taught the lessons of this Conference and be made to understand the high aims and unselfish purposes of America.

EDWARD I. EDWARDS, Governor of New Jersey.

Next to the movement which resulted in the gathering of representatives of world powers at Washington to discuss and agree upon a limitation of armaments, the most powerful aid to the ultimate accomplishment of a lasting peace among men is your earnest plea that our twenty million American school children join with their elders in studying closely the proceedings of the Armament Conference that they may be thoroughly imbued with the anti-war feeling. That sentiment will, I trust, through the medium of our most potential educator the Press, be heard around the world and do more than any other human agency to supplant fear and suspicion with trust and confidence, thus removing the primary cause of war and begetting an era of good will.

R. A. NESTOS, Governor of North Dakota.

Every student should secure as full and accurate knowledge as possible of the work of the conference. This will help us scarcely anything else could give meaning to the events of the coming decades, imbue the rising generations with the spirit of this Conference, and the world's progress must follow the paths of peace.

J. B. A. ROBERTSON, Governor of Oklahoma.

The Limitation of Armaments Conference in Washington will accomplish through its deliberations the most thorough illuminating and practical survey of the past development and future progress of our civilization that can ever be achieved. The proceedings of the Conference should be read and reviewed as a part of the daily course in all our schools, colleges and universities in order that the rising generation may be fully educated upon the cost and folly of war.

BEN W. OLCOTT, Governor of Oregon.

If success is achieved at Disarmament Conference, as it now appears it shall be, History will hold no record of achievement for world good equal to it. Consequently History may hold nothing more vital for the study of our youths and all citizens than the progressive steps of this gathering.

WILLIAM C. SPROUL, Governor of Pennsylvania.

I am calling upon the fifty thousand public school teachers in Pennsylvania to lead their students into the study of the proceedings of the great Conference at Washington in the belief that they will thus see in the making historical events which may lead to results comparable only to the promised millennium of peace and good will.

EMERY J. SAN SOU, Governor of Rhode Island.

The President should receive the support of every American in his efforts to assure permanent peace to the world. The school children especially should study the proceedings of the Conference so that the coming generation may be well-fitted to aid in the cause of permanent peace.

ROBERT A. COOPER, Governor of South Carolina.

Study of the proceedings of the Disarmament Conference will have a tendency to enlighten the public concerning international affairs. Enlightenment, together with a sense of justice, is essential for the proper solution of questions arising between nations. Many stupid blunders and costly wars have resulted because the general public was not informed. The proceeding of the Conference should be studied in all schools.

May the school children of America study every phase, act and utterance of the Disarmament Conference. Every detail and circumstance of the Conference should be a vital part of the daily study of the school children of America.

ALFRED A. TAYLOR, Governor of Tennessee.

There can be no better way to train the citizens of tomorrow for the discharge of their most important duties than by encouraging them to study the proceedings of the great Conference now in session at Washington. The study of the Conference will deal with the political and economic history of the whole world, and its study and a discussion of these subjects will afford a source of enlightenment on matters of vital concern and a fund of knowledge of inestimable value to the rising generation of boys and girls when they are at the helm.

PAT M. NEFF, Governor of Texas.

The history that is now being made by the Disarmament Conference at Washington will be frequently referred to by writers, speakers and thinkers for generations to come. It constitutes an epoch-making milestone that ineffably marks the march of man. The students of today who are to be the men and women of tomorrow should have a part of their daily curriculum in detailed proceedings of this world-wide conference, as it seeks to turn the tide of civilization away from the war-wrecked shores of the past.

CHARLES R. MABEY, Governor of Utah.

The Disarmament Conference constitutes a landmark in human progress. The significance of which cannot yet be conceived. By all means let us study earnestly its deliberations that understanding among all peoples may be the result. . . . It is essential to posterity that the youth of the nation comprehend the full meaning and purposes of the gathering. With such a basis of familiarity they will best be prepared to perpetuate and bring to complete materialization the aims and ideas now being proposed.

LOUIS F. HART, Governor of Washington.

There is much truth in the argument that human nature will have to undergo a change before war can be eliminated. . . . A beginning has been made—a bold, fearless step, such as an unselfish nation like the United States might be expected to take, but after all its greatest value is educational—the problem remains for future generations. By all means let the children of the land study closely the Disarmament Conference.

E. F. MORGAN, Governor of West Virginia.

The International Conference on Limitation of Armament, with political and economic discussions concerning far east problems, gives to American students unparalleled opportunities to study and acquaint themselves with world problems and an understanding of which will be of great service to their Nation in the coming years.

JOHN J. BLAINE, Governor of Wisconsin.

The study of the news of the Armament Conference in connection with the political and economic history of the World and the causes of war will give us enlightened future generations in aid of World Peace.

ROBERT D. CAREY, Governor of Wyoming.

The history of the Disarmament Conference should be impressed upon the minds of the school children of America. The United States leads in a movement that promises more for the peace of the world than any gathering of statesmen since the dawn of history. Through our Educational Department I have requested that the schools of Wyoming shall study every phase of the Conference, from its inception to final adjournment. With the minds of the students of the Nation focused upon the proceedings of the Conference, the chief actors will feel a keener incentive to make their conclusions conform to the dominant will of the peoples of the earth.

TO the FATHERS and MOTHERS of AMERICA

This message comes to you with the challenge of a great opportunity for your boys and girls. It presses upon you a personal responsibility to see that they do not lose the benefits of this wonderful opportunity to fit themselves in the broadest way for their future citizenship. Take the matter up personally with their teachers and with the principals of their schools. Urge it through your Parents' Associations. The Literary Digest is helping all it can, not only by printing this Message of the Governors in hundreds of the leading dailies of the country from Maine to California, but also by publishing in its own pages every week a careful review and explanation of the Proceedings of the Arms Conference, together with opinions regarding it from all over the world. The Governor of Montana was moved to telegraph, a few days ago, that "the last number of The Literary Digest was a veritable treasure-house of information regarding the scope and possibilities of this historic International Conference." Five hundred thousand school children already are studying The Literary Digest in their classrooms, and the fullest cooperation is provided to enable all others to enjoy the same benefit.

HOW TO MARKET CORN.

Much is being said these days about the lack of marketing facilities available to the farmers of Georgia through which to dispose of the unprecedented volume of corn, hay, potatoes, peanut and other food crops produced this year.

It is pointed out by sympathetic commentators on every hand that

Georgia farmers this year heeded

the advice of diversification enthusiasts to such an extent that they produced approximately 90,-

000,000 bushels of corn—more than ever before produced in this state in a single year—and that this immense amount of grain constitutes "a white elephant" on the hands of the farmers for the want of a market.

The growers do not know what to do with it, for the prices at which it can be sold on a glutted market are insufficient to cover the cost of production.

This, in substance, is the problem confronting the feed crop farmers, and all sorts of "solutions" have been suggested by well-meaning theorists; such, for instance, as the establishment of marketing associations, warehouses, systematized grading, packing, etc.

The best, most profitable and in all respects the most advantageous way for the farmers of Georgia to use their corn and to realize "top prices" for it is to feed it to live stock and sell it on the hoof.

A prominent authority on Georgia rural marketing conditions recently made this statement:

"There is a lot of talk right now about the necessity of doing something to turn the ninety million bushels of corn into cash. That's all wrong and not. That ninety million bushels of corn, assuming that much has been made, is needed on Georgia farms to carry our present stock and hogs and other domestic animals, and broadly speaking not a bushel of it ought to leave the farm which produced it except possibly in the form of hogs and steers going to market on foot. The same thing is true of tons of thousands of tons of hay, forage and miscellaneous crops that are largely going to waste each year, because of lack of meat animals or dairy animals to consume it. The packing plants of Georgia are begging for Georgia produced hogs and cattle of the right kind, and the White Provision Co. of Atlanta last year was able to get only about 40 per cent of its hogs of Georgia growth while other packing plants in the state are shut down or are running on exceedingly short time. Mr.

McDowell, manager of the Swift plant at Moultrie, was quoted as saying recently that a million pounds a day of fresh meat were coming into Georgia from outside.

The Lord only knows how much the poultry and poultry product importations from Tennessee and Kentucky are into Georgia, and a portion of Atlanta's milk supply at present comes from Selma, Ala., about 175 miles or more. Absolutely train loads of Illinois and Wisconsin butter roll into Atlanta every year, every pound of which should be and is capable of being produced on Georgia farms."

There is the whole thing in the proverbial nutshell!

There is a market, at "top prices," for every pound of our 90,000,000 bushels of Georgia corn, and for every bushel of corn, every peck of peanuts, every ton of hay, Georgia is capable of producing—through the packing house, dairy and poultry yard!

When the farmer feeds his corn and hay, making meat and milk and wool and eggs of it—and thus at the same time, adding to the fertility of his land—all both about cleaning and grading, and market quotations is eliminated.

And the business interests generally, to say nothing of the government, should see to it that he is provided with the necessary financial facilities whereby to acquire a sufficient number of animals to consume every pound of feed he produces.

Undoubtedly there are many farmers in Georgia today who have corn and hay, but not enough live stock through which to dispose of it at a profit, and no money nor credit with which to acquire the animals he needs.

At the same time the vaults of the government are almost bursting with gold.

This is an incongruous situation.

Some sort of a system should be adopted whereby the farmer who produces feedstuffs, regardless of his lack of actual money, would be able to provide himself with live stock to consume it.

Corn is potential pork—a necessary commodity of stable and dependable value—the same as cotton is potential cloth.

And the farmer who has corn should be able to borrow money on it just the same, and with as much ease, as though he owned cotton instead of corn.

Once that becomes possible, the problem of finding a market for the feedstuffs produced in Georgia will quickly and automatically solve itself.

Business interests should cooperate with the farmers to the end that such facilities may be provided.

AS CHRISTMAS COMES.

The world answers and disproves

all the arguments of the pessimists

as Christmas comes.

For weeks before, those monitors of merriment, the little children of a thousand homes in every community, make the household ring with joy and sweet anticipation.

And this, despite the troubles of the workaday past—its hopes and disappointments—is something to have lived and toiled for.

If the world is only measurably happy, and can give supreme happiness to little hearts at home in the holiday time of the vanishing year, it's a great, good world to live in!

Even the old Grouch Man, at that time, beholding the happiness of others—or at least, the will to be happy—tells all the little troubles he has gathered "round him,

to "run and play!"

And away they scamper, and if they come back at all, they are holding hands with the happy children, in the light of love and joy.

So, as the Grouch Man has no familiar place in the blest and brightening Christmas days, he gets out of the growing grove and looks on the brighter side.

It's always that way as the Christmas time approaches. The sad world catches the light reflected from faces set toward the happier day, and there's room in the House of Happiness for all.

SAVING AND SPENDING.

It is the spending season because it has been the saving season.

That follows naturally—wise saying and wise spending, and now is the time when the thrifty and provident ones reap the benefits of the money put aside against the Christmas season.

Even the little home-banks of the children's pennies and dimes have made "holiday bankers" of many of them, for the pennies have grown into dollars and the little fireless Christmas citizens are now in position to "check up" in fine financial shape!

So with the older saving ones of the household—they're doing pretty well all around.

In this connection the Albany

(Ga.) Herald says of what it calls

"The Secret of Saving":

"Learn how to save. The secret of it is in the systematic putting aside of a part of whatever earning or income a man or a woman may have. It may be a small percentage of the whole that can be taken out weekly or monthly and "saved early," but if the beginning is made early in life it is astonishing what the result will be in the end."

That is why there are juvenile banking institutions here and there in the country, established and maintained through the thrift and saving of school children.

The child-banker doesn't figure in the story books alone; he is a reality, and growing up to be a financial force to reckon with.

There's money everywhere now for holiday spending—if there was money for holiday saving; and the hearts and homes of the people, old and young, are made brighter and happier because they looked ahead, and saving, if it seemed sacrifice, because it meant self-denial, at first, has made joy for themselves and others.

If the Washington conference succeeds in satisfying the world,

there will be more hope of its final salvation.

LAST SERVICES TODAY FOR COL. THOMPSON

Funeral services for Colonel Joseph Thompson, for years one of the best known business men of the south, and nationally known socially, will be conducted at the chapel of Barclay & Brandon at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon by Rev. C. B. Wilmer. Interment will follow in West View cemetery.

Colonel Thompson, who had been ill for less than a week, died at St. Joseph's infirmary at 11 o'clock Saturday night. He was 79 years old.

Surviving him are a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Livingston Miss Thompson, of Louisville, Ky., the widow of his only son, and a sister, Mrs. Thomas M. Clarke, of Atlanta. He was a brother of the late Mrs. Richard Peters. He is also survived by a large number of nephews and nieces.

Colonel Thompson was born in Deatur, the son of Dr. Joseph Thompson, a noted physician. For the greater part of his life, however, he was a resident of Atlanta. When the civil war came, Colonel Thompson, then in his teens, went to war as a member of the old Gate City guards, which enlisted as a body. The marks company was at the time commanded by his brother, the late Captain Harvey Thompson.

Although he enlisted as a private, he was discharged a corporal, the title colonel or major was bestowed upon him by his friends. He took pains to disclaim the title and declared with pride that he served in the uniform of a soldier in the ranks, but the title, which befitted him well, clung to him.

At the conclusion of the war, Colonel Thompson returned to Atlanta, engaged in business with marked success, and became a prominent figure in the social life of the city. He was for years proprietor of the Kimball hotel. Colonel Thompson was the first president of the Nine O'clock German club, a social organization formed in 1882. He was a charter member of the Capital City club, and was at the time of his death an honorary member. He took an active part in organizing the Piedmont Driving club.

Fitting Tribute Paid to Departed Members of Elks

Atlanta Elks participated Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in a service honoring the memory of departed members of the order. The Elks assembled at Loew's Grand theater, where the ritualistic work of the order was rendered by the officers. John A. Hynds, prominent attorney of this city, and a member of the firm of Brandon & Hynds, gave the address of the afternoon.

While the service commemorated the deceased members of the order in years past, 123 in all, it was especially in memory of those who died during last year. The dead of the recent past were J. M. Nash, Jr., Amos Baker, Cecil Poole, J. H. Trout, O. M. Varley, J. E. Winter, O. T. Barry, Zach Castleberry and R. P. Stahl.

The memorial address by John A. Hynds was characterized by those who were present as a magnificent oration deserving the highest praise. One of the largest crowds present at any memorial service of the order, it was said, gathered to hear this address. An excellent musical program had been arranged, featuring Miss Nora Allen, who rendered several vocal selections. Miss Allen sang with the Metropolitan Opera company formerly and is now a resident of Atlanta. Other solos which were well received were those of Mrs. Jennie Gavan-Dean and E. B. Fuller. The quartet from First Christian church, gave the invocation, after which the ritualistic side of the service was carried out.

TEAM WORKERS PLEAD FOR NEGRO Y. M. C. A.

The team workers spent yesterday making their appeals for the colored Y. M. C. A. $10,000 fund through the churches, and were given a hearty welcome.

This evening at 6 o'clock the final reports will be made. At the close of the Saturday evening meeting, the largest amount reported for the day was made by Morehouse college eleven. W. Woods White made a strong appeal to the teams. He said that years ago the people gave in faith but now the building was up and in action, and the work done during the past year was worth all that had been given. Revs. Singleton, Nabrit, Williams, E. J. Davis, J. L. Wheeler, Professor Archer and the captains predicted success.

MRS. THOMPSON DIES AT THE AGE OF 92

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Attorney & Lowndes in charge. Dr. L. O. Bricker will officiate. R. E. Gann, her son-in-law, is prominent in labor circles. The Constitution's Weekly Detective Story WONDERFUL JOHN DORY

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
(Copyright, 1921, for The Constitution).

Next Week, "The Man From the Old Testament."

Peter Ruff shook his head. "Not in the least," he answered. "I have had some good fortune to render Lady Mary and her brother, at different times, services which they are pleased to value highly. We are here as ordinary people—my wife and I."

The marquis sighed.
"Ah, that wife of yours, Ruff!" he said. "She is charming, I admit, and you are a lucky man; but it is a price—a very great price to pay."

"You perhaps are ambitious, Marquis," Peter Ruff answered. "I have not done so badly. A little contents me."

Sogrange looked at him as though he were some strange creature.
"I see," he murmured. "I see! With you, of course, the commercial side comes uppermost. Mr. Ruff, what do you suppose the income from my estate amounts to?"

Peter Ruff shook his head. He did not even know that the marquis was possessed of estates!

"Somewhere about seven millions of francs," Sogrange declared. "There are few men in Paris more extravagant than I, and I think that we Frenchmen know what extravagance means. But I cannot spend my money. Do you think that it is for the sake of gain that I have come across the channel to see the Cleverton diamonds to our coffers?"

Peter Ruff sat very still.
"Of course," Sogrange answered. "Didn't you realize it directly you saw me? What is there, do you think, in a dull English house party to attract a man like myself? Don't you understand that it is the gambler's instinct which leads me to the Cleverton diamonds?"

Peter Ruff answered.
"I do not profess to understand you. I am not worthy of life, in fact I love it. I am looking forward to the years when I have enough money—and it seems as though that time is not far off—when I can buy a little place in the country and hunt a little and shoot a little, and live a little out-of-door life. You see, Marquis, we are as far removed as the poles."

"Obviously!" Sogrange answered.
"Your confidence," Peter Ruff continued, "the confidence with which you have honored me, inspires me to make you one request. I am here, indeed, as a friend of the family. You will not ask me to help in playing the signs you may have against the Cleverton jewels?"

Georgia Tech Exonerated Of Charges of Rowdiness

In a story written by John W. Hammond, which appeared Sunday in The Savannah Morning News and The Macon Telegraph, Georgia Tech students are exonerated of charges of rowdiness and destruction of property, on Thanksgiving night following their turkey day victory over Auburn.

These charges were made in a story published in the News, and the Telegraph, and were largely based on statements made by a prominent jurist, whose name was not given, and others.

Charges Against Tech.
It was stated that the street car schedules were interrupted, the theatrical performances ruined, a plate glass smashed, and that a number of other undesirable incidents occurred.

In the story published Sunday and reproduced in The Constitution this morning it is explained that a sign carried by one of the boys, which reflected on the University of Georgia, was promptly removed by an upper classman; that the students had been given permission to stage a parade by the theatrical managers; that there was no destruction of property, and the situation is briefly summed up by Police Chief Beavers as follows:

"It was a sort of carnival time and the boys whoop a lot and prank some, but we are disposed to overlook little things. There was no destruction of property and no complaint made to the police that any women had been insulted."

Mr. Hammond's honorable amende follows:

BY JOHN W. HAMMOND.
Atlanta, December 3.—The "much ado" about the "bad party" of the Georgia Tech students on Thanksgiving night, following the victorious game with Auburn, and the criticism which followed publication of a news story of that event, after declaration by representatives of the great state institution that Tech had been done a grave injustice and was sorely aggrieved, has been investigated with the result that at most there was in it nothing more than as is practiced in any college town, and practically everything was done by the students upon permission.

It appears clearly established upon investigation that the rixality on the streets was not produced by Tech students but rather was the outcome of that common collection of a crowd which attends affairs of this kind and in which there is not uncommonly a vast presumption on the part of the "bystander" or spectator.

The use of a placard in the parade is an incident which has considerable precedent, and it is found that was removed by upperclassmen of the institution immediately they discovered its use.

The congestion of traffic and the collecting of a crowd of restive people at a point near the Piedmont hotel was an incident of the parade of the college students down Peachtree street which the chief of police describes as follows: "Street car traffic was blocked for less than ten minutes, and that is customary whenever great crowds congregate in our downtown section."

The later continuation of an unusual crowd in that vicinity, it was found, was not of Tech students, but of the city who had evidently come here on account of the football game and among whom there were personal exchanges which have been credited to Tech boys, but which in reality the students of that institution had no part, as is an undoubted fact in respect to any damage done anywhere.

Indeed, investigation establishes the fact that, following their parade, the Tech students as a body retired from the business section of the city's streets, and very few of them, if any, remained in the business section of the city.

Visits to Theaters.
The greater stress, in report of the incident as published, was laid on the visitation of playhouses and amusement places, which is found to be attributable wholly to the fact that while the student parade was given permission, as it is now learned, to enter the playhouse, the audiences were unaware of that fact and obviously were taken by surprise which Tech student body celebrated their victory over Auburn with a big parade through the Lyric theater. This parade was conducted in an orderly manner. The Lyric is always glad to welcome the Tech boys who always conduct themselves as gentlemen."

In respect to the Howard theater Manager DeSales Harrison says:

"On the night of November 24 the Tech student body, led by their band and cheer leaders, moved through the Howard theater, celebrating their victory over Auburn university. This celebration was conducted in an orderly manner and they were not in the theater over five minutes. Rather than causing confusion it added to our program and the Howard orchestra aided in the celebration by playing 'Ramble' Wreck." This is given to clear any misrepresentation charges against the Tech student body.

An inaccuracy in the news story published of the events of that night was that the night shirt parade was responsible for the breaking of a large show window at one of the prominent stores. That reference was made in the story upon statement of a bystander of the vicinity at the time of the traffic congestion at that point, but investigation proves it was not correct, nor had the Tech boys any connection whatever with the breaking of the window, which resulted from an automobile accident, according to J. W. Shinholser, manager of the place, who says the breakage occurred "on the morning before the parade."

The two men parted. Peter Ruff was uneasy. On his way from the room, Lord Sotherer insisted upon his joining a pool.

"Charming fellow, Sogrange," the latter remarked, as he walked up his way. "He has been a great friend of mine. Our families have intermarried once or twice."

He seems very agreeable," Peter Ruff answered, devoting himself to the game.

The following night, being the last but one before the wedding itself, a large dinner-party had been arranged for the evening at the Cleverton mansion as Cleverton Court were strained to their utmost by the entertainment of something like a dull, rumbling sound like the moving of a number of pieces of heavy furniture. People looked doubtfully at one another. Peter Ruff and the Marquis de Sogrange were among the first to spring to their feet.

"It's an explosion somewhere," the latter cried. "Sounds close at hand, too."

They made their way out into the hall. Exactly opposite now was the room in which the wedding presents had been placed, and where for days nothing had been seen but a closed door and a man on duty outside. The door now stood wide open, and in place of the single electric light which had been burning through the evening, the place seemed almost aflame.

OWES KLAN NOTHING, SAYS HARRY TERRELL

Declaring that instead of being indebted to the Ku Klux Klan in his accounts with that order, as charged by Edward Young Clarke, imperial klanter, the organization owes him money, Harry B. Terrell, grand goblin of the Great Lakes domain, gave out a statement Sunday saying he needs the funds and is anxious for a settlement.

"I don't owe Clarke or the klan anything," asserted the goblin. "When an accounting has been had they'll owe me money. I am anxious to have them settle with me because I need the funds. I have heretofore invited and now invite E. Y. Clarke to go to Chicago and to Washington in order that I can obtain a settlement."

"I have agreed to only one thing, and that is to meet E. Y. Clarke anywhere, any time, to talk settlement."

"I proposed to turn over to Clarke anything of his which might be in my actual or constructive possession, when and if he paid me what is due me."

Terrell was granted Saturday by Judge John T. Pendleton a temporary injunction restraining Clarke from pursuing bail trouble proceedings against him filed by the imperial klanter. The injunction was granted after Terrell had instituted suit for damages of $50,000 against Clarke.

Terrell and three other grand goblins, for whom warrants were sworn out Saturday by the imperial klanter, recently brought charges against Clarke before the imperial klondium of the klan, which the klondium dismissed.

It was stated by Clarke that no warrant was sworn out against Terrell, as he had agreed to make settlement with the bookkeeper, stating that he was two weeks behind with his accounts.

This assertion the goblin vigorously denied in his statement Sunday night.

GAMBLE CHOSEN TO HEAD COTTON GROWERS' BODY

Lyerly, Ga., December 4.—(Special.)—W. L. Gamble, of Lyerly, one of Chattooga county's most progressive farmers, has been chosen as permanent chairman of the Chattooga County Cotton Growers' Co-operative Marketing association, succeeding Colonel Wesley Shropshire, of Summerville, who has acted as temporary chairman since the association was established in this county early last summer. Lee McWhorter was elected secretary and treasurer.

Chattooga is one of the sixteen Georgia counties in which the association is about to stage an "over-the-top" campaign, designed to put these counties well beyond their quota before January 1.

Colonel Clarence Ousley, of Texas, agricultural economist, will be at Summerville on December 12, in the interest of the association. Immediately after the speaking, a drive for new members will be launched under the direction of Lee McWhorter.

RECEPTION PLANNED TO GENERAL PARKER

Veterans in Atlanta of the first division will make plans Tuesday for a special reception to be accorded General Frank Parker, former commander of the first division "over-seas," who will accompany Marshal Foch, generalissimo of the allied armies, when he comes to Atlanta on December 9.

The meeting to plan for this feature of the occasion will be held Tuesday at 1 o'clock in the Rathskeller at the Ansley hotel. Plans also will be discussed to form a first division post in Atlanta.

There are a considerable number of first division veterans in Atlanta, a good many of whom are taking vocational training at Tech and others of whom are in the government hospitals here. These men are asked to be present at the meeting Tuesday.

New Record for Building Set in Atlanta

According to statistics in the city building inspector's office, a new record was set in November for building activity. Business has increased in volume approximately 30 per cent, as shown by the records. Permits issued during the first eleven months equaled 3,604 in number, while for the first eleven months in 1920, only 2,498 permits were granted. During the year the amount of building placed under construction amounted to a total of $10,666,220, which is considered better than last year's record of $13,000,000, considering the drop of 30 per cent in cost of all building material. Home building has proven to be the predominating class of construction for the year 1921. Upward of 1,200 homes have been begun this year, a substantial increase over the number started in any year since 1910. It will take only 118 building permits in December to make 1921 the banner home-building year.

No Boom But Coming Back to Normal Soon

Progress toward normal conditions throughout the country has been continuous during November, despite a relative "slowing down" as compared with the previous two months, the federal reserve board said in its monthly business and financial review, issued a few days ago in Washington.

"On the whole," the board said, "the best opinion now looks to a steady, even, if locally interrupted, program back to normal conditions, although no immediate or sudden expansion or boom is in sight."

During the past month, the board declared, improvement in business conditions was not so pronounced. For the time being, it was explained, the peak of demand has been reached and passed while uncertainty regarding prices of staples, particularly cotton, has interfered with trade buying.

"The legal situation of trade and industry," the board said, "is unmistakably more hopeful and is improving as steadily as can be expected, in view of the slowness of economic progress in other parts of the world, particularly in western Europe."

One-Half People Over Ten Work for Living

More than fifty per cent of the inhabitants of the United States over the age of ten, work for a living, the census bureau reported a few days ago.

Persons of both sexes engaged in "gainful occupations" total 41,609,192, the bureau stated on the basis of the 1920 census. This represents 39.4 per cent of the total population and 50.3 per cent of all persons over 10 years of age.

In 1910 the workers numbered 38,167,336, or nine per cent less than the 1920 figure; but the workers then comprised 41.5 per cent of the entire population, and 53.3 per cent of the inhabitants over the age of ten at work.

This drop in the ratio over 1920 is due to the change in the season for taking the census, the bureau stated. The last census was taken in winter, when the rural workers are at a minimum.

Of the 1920 total, 33,059,793 were males and 8,549,399 were females.

Hotel Equipment Co.
Rushed With Orders
For Cafeteria Outfits

Growing from a moderate beginning about twelve years ago, in an institution which is now manufacturing its product on a large scale, and shipping it all over the southern states, the Hotel Equipment company, at 38-40 Walton street, has a record of which it may well be proud.

The company not only is a large house where any and all manner of hotel equipment can be secured direct by the consumer, but for the last year or so it has turned its attention largely to the manufacture of cafeteria and lunch counter outfits, and is building up a splendid reputation for this line of work.

The company occupies all of the entire large building on Walton street, comprising four floors and basement, and employs thirty to thirty-five men, who are exceptionally skilled in their line. The very best cooper-smiths are engaged in the building of special steam tables and cafeteria outfits. The entire top floor is a big workshop, equipped with all manner of modern machinery for the execution of this work. The plant is equipped with its own nickel-plating outfit, and once the big cookers and steam tables are built of metal of various kinds, these include nickel-plating, and the job completed and polished in the very highest-workmanship.

One of the advantages of dealing with the Hotel Equipment company is that it is order just as exactly the right kind and the right sizes of equipment to suit any cafeteria. Special draughtsmen are employed who visit the location before opening, and make a plan of the stand or table, and the entire outfit planned to the best advantage. It is this class of work which has kept the concern busy—in fact behind with its orders—for the past several months.

Recently it has shipped five complete cafeteria outfits, made to special order, one to Orlando, Fla., and four to other cities. It has also shipped outfits to Deland, Fla., and others to Daytona Beach. It is now building, and has nearly ready for shipment, specially made-to-order outfits for Fayetteville, N. C., for Wilmington, N. C., and Chattanooga, Tenn. Orders have also been filled for Columbus, Ga., as well as many in and around Atlanta.

Thomas M. Turner, vice president and manager, states that the business for this purpose. But when it began to tell its customers, and to show them, the pretty work their outfits were capable of turning out, there came a demand for the company itself to do the multigraphing. The demand grew, and as the demand grew the house grew to meet it. It has now supplied itself to the point where every modern equipment is theirs by which the most expert and prompt multigraphing work can be done. The company takes the letter it is desired to send out, and handles it from beginning to end, even sealing the envelopes with the very latest of machinery.

W. H. Wigley, head of the house, declares that the multigraphing end of the business is growing to be quite a feature with them, and that the service it is giving—which includes not only the quality of the work but the prompt manner in which it is delivered—is drawing for them a large list of patrons.

Seal and Stamp company paid much attention to furnishing all the supplies which its name indicates. Many of the things which it furnished had to do with multigraphing—even to the handling of machines through practical experience and is considered one of the finest mechanics in the south. Mr. Treary is declared to be one of the best posted men in the south on sand pump, marble machine and fertilizer machine repair parts. He is also well informed on heating systems and steam boilers.

Dixie Seal & Stamp Co.
Busy on Multigraphing

There are more ways than one to take care of a customer's needs, and the Dixie Seal and Stamp Co. at 76 North Broad street, is not overlooking any business "beta" these days. Just now it is turning much of its attention to multigraphing letters for any number of houses that need that line of work—and there seems no end to them.

There was a time when the Dixie Seal and Stamp company paid much attention to furnishing all the supplies which its name indicates. Many of the things which it furnished had to do with multigraphing—even to the handling of machines through practical experience and is considered one of the finest mechanics in the south. Mr. Treary is declared to be one of the best posted men in the south on sand pump, marble machine and fertilizer machine repair parts. He is also well informed on heating systems and steam boilers.

THE GUMPS—THE HALL OF FAME

Cotton Market Gossip

New Orleans, December 4.—After advances of 34 to 55 points in the early part of this last week the cotton market commenced to fall off and toward the end it stood 40 to 50 points under the close of the preceding week. The net results were declines of 11 to 19 points. January traded as high as 17.57, as low as 16.25 and closed at 16.65 cents a pound. In the spot department middling sold 50 points on the week, closing at 16.75 against 15.25 a year ago.

The main reasons for the selling movement were the absence of any special activity in the spot department and the return to somewhat higher crop estimates. Traders talked freely about a crop of anywhere from 8,000,000 up to 8,200,000 bales and outstanding feature of the week in this connection with a private crop estimate of 7,890,000 bales and the statement by the federal reserve board that the indications were that the crop would be in excess of 8,000,000 bales. Crop estimates were of increased interest because of the annual crop estimate by the department of agriculture, due the 12th of December. In connection with the size of the crop there was much comment concerning ginning and the average of opinion seemed to be that the sixth period of the ginning season, carrying the crop down to the first of December, would produce about 300,000 bales, which would bring the total from the first of the season up to about 7,600,000 bales. The sixth ginning period is due from the census bureau; this comes on Thursday and figures of over 7,600,000 bales undoubtedly would be considered bearish and would probably lead to a further revision of crop ideas. Anything under 7,500,000 bales would cause increased attention to be given to crop estimates of slightly under 8,000,000 bales and would probably cause a buying wave of consequence.

CITY IN ARIZONA DOOMED BY FIRE

Yuma, Ariz., December 4.—Complete destruction of this city is threatened by a fire which started at 8 a. m. Sunday from a mysterious source. Twenty store buildings and 25 business houses in the central district had been reduced to ashes by nightfall. E. F. Sanguinetti, millionaire merchant and cotton grower of Yuma and Somerton, is near death as a result of a terrific explosion of a large gasoline storage tank. Numbers of others were injured in the same explosion. A high wind carried a sheet of flame through the center of the city, and the Yuma fire department, unable to cope with the situation, sent calls for help to Somerton, Gadsden, San Luis, in Mexico, and other nearby points. Fire-fighting apparatus was being rushed in by the Southern Pacific Railroad. The entire population of Yuma valley turned out to help battle the flames. The loss already exceeds $1,000,000.

The negro was the proprietor of a pressing club at 138 Woodward avenue. He was summoned to the grocery store by a white boy who had passed the place and had seen the bandit.

Crawford secured a pistol and rushed to the grocery store, where he was shot in the abdomen by the bandit when the man made his escape.

Funeral services for the young man were conducted at the home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Interment followed in Antion cemetery, with Harry G. Poole in charge.

Surviving Mr. Swords are two sisters, Miss Willie Swords and Mrs. N. B. Carl; his parents, and two brothers.

1925 World's Fair for City Boosted by Leading Men

Plans are being made to hold a meeting of citizens who have pledged themselves to do everything within their power to further plans for a world's fair in Atlanta in 1925, early next January, the meeting to be held probably in the Auditorium. The time and place will be decided upon by a committee on arrangements, according to M. D. Gleason, acting secretary of the world's fair committee.

Numerous reasons why a world's fair for Atlanta in 1925 is desirable were given in a statement issued Sunday by M. D. Gleason, acting secretary of the world's fair committee. Gleason submitted to The Constitution a group of about 150 names of people prominent in Atlanta and Georgia, whom he stated had heartily endorsed the fair.

It was declared in the statement that "as ten years will have elapsed since the last world's exposition, our country and its people will be ready to appreciate and patronize a world's fair. It is stated that no one enterprise or project will do as much to advertise favorably the whole south as a world fair held in Atlanta in 1925." It is pointed out that "the exposition of 1881 and the exposition of 1893 were directly and indirectly responsible for the coming of many people to Atlanta, and who have since made it their home."

The exposition mills, it is set forth, "are Atlanta's gain and a substantial monument to the promoters of the Exposition fair of 1881. But Atlanta was not alone in profiting by that exposition, for as a direct result of the great fair, many mills were built all over the south. To the exposition held at Piedmont park in 1895 is attributed the fact that many of the large corporations selected Atlanta as their southeastern headquarters."

"A large machinery exhibit of revolving wheels making their finished products on the grounds," the statement continues, "is already assured by several large concerns. The great advantage that will be gained by this concerns in new business and advertising will many times pay for the small outlay of space to install their machinery."

No better means can be secured to show the world at large the great natural resources to be found both above and below ground in this section, and the ease with which they can be developed.

"More manufacturing plants in the south would give more employment to people that live in the south, and the railroad would haul cars of southern finished products north whereas they now haul our raw material to be brought back and sold at greatly advanced prices as the products of northern industries."

Would Welcome Opportunity. "The owners of many great inventions, appliances and new devices that are now being perfected would welcome the great opportunity to display and demonstrate their articles to the large crowds at the fair."

"Nearly 300 southeastern representatives of large concerns and industries are now being perfected would welcome the great opportunity to display and demonstrate their articles to the large crowds at the fair."

TWO ARE ARRESTED AFTER AUTO SMASH

Struck broadside by another automobile at Pryor and Glenn streets Sunday night, a car driven by S. M. King, of McDonough road, and occupied by his wife and their four small children, was hurled to the opposite side of the street, against a telephone pole. No one was injured, but both automobiles were damaged. The automobile which struck Mr. King's car, as it was being driven south on Pryor street, was driven by M. B. Wilkes, aged 18, of 6 Evely place, and was crossing Pryor on Glenn street, driving east. In the crash with Wilkes were two young women and Jack Taggard, aged 18, of Mayson and Turner road.

After striking Mr. King's automobile, police alleged, Wilkes backed his own automobile away, and drove on. A block further, however, a wheel came off the car, and Wilkes was forced to stop. The young women ran away, but Wilkes and Taggard remained.

Wilkes was held at police headquarters in default of $200 bond, charged with reckless driving. Taggard was charged with disorderly conduct, and a bond of $16 assessed. Police allege that fragments of a bottle which apparently had contained a bottle were found in the automobile.
